Chef de Gare's Notes

I'd like to ask each of you to make a point of telling the story of the 40 et 8 to at least three people in the next month. By doing so you will get the word out in the community of the good works we do. I am of the opinion that the best way for us to neutralize the threat of the Indian casino is to tell our story, and relay to those we know what we are all about.

There was another event in the Boxcar Room this weekend with a group of Columbia River High School students holding a garage sale with the proceeds going to Doernbecher Children's Hospital. With the spring and summer months approaching us, if you have an event you would like to hold in the Boxcar Room, please get with Nicole and check the schedule early. The calendar is filling up fast.

At the March Prom we will be reviewing a revised Constitution, which you should have received via e-mail from Phil. If you are of a mind to submit a change to the current draft, I would ask that you be ready to submit it in written form, in order to make it easier on our Correspondent.

It is also that time of year for the nominating committee to be at work. Jerry, Phil and Bill will be looking for a few good individuals to fill the open offices. If you want to run for any position please let one of the committee members know them know if you intend to run. There will be two Cheminot positions and a full slate of officer positions available. If you are currently an officer, please let them know of you intend to continue through the chairs.

Thanks for taking the time to read my ramblings.

From the Correspondant

If you are looking for a charity that you can trust, here are a couple of web sites for you to browse that are honest charities:

1. For a list of the Best Military, Family and Veterans Service Charities: HTTP://www.mfvsoa.org
2. For a list of the best Military Support Charities: HTTP://www.militarysupport

These listings have been checked out by the Combined Federal Campaign. You won't see any of these charities on TV asking for $19.00 a month and promising miracles that cannot happen.

Have you moved to a new address? Or changed your Email address? I just tracked down one 40 et 8 Voyageur that moved 35 years ago. How I was able to do this is my secret which I will not reveal. The big problem is that this voyageur has missed out on a lot of information. We have 50 voyageurs that have no email address, or won't let the Voiture have it. They are missing out on our current events that are sent via email.

Nominations are being accepted for the 2016-2017 Voiture 99 Officers. Pass your nominations to Jerry Keen, Phil Ruhmshottel or JW Bailey. They will be keeping track to make sure all positions are filled. Remember, if you miss a Prom, you could wind up on the list! Think about joining one of our committees. Extra team members are always welcome. In joining, you will learn the ropes.

The Grande du Washington Petite Promenade will be held on March 18 and 19, 2016 at Voiture 99. The guest speaker for the Saturday banquet will be Anne McEnerney-Ogle, the newly appointed Mayor Pro-Temp of Vancouver. She is also a member of our La Femmes. Make sure you turn in your registration. Forms are located in the Chateau near the sign in sheet.

If you are considering running for a Grande Office, it is time to have a resolution ready for our March promenade so we can vote on it.

Americanism

From the Desk of Dixie Lee Hotaling –
National Sous Americanism Directeur Area A

“Painful as it may be, a significant emotional event can be the catalyst for choosing a direction that serves us – and those around us.”

Recently we lost Marines in an air crash. Daily our military faces danger and death. That is why is it SO important for us veterans to reach out and keep patriotism alive. Each time you speak before the community, each time you give a flag to a first grader, you are promoting our cause and honoring those who put their lives in harm’s way – for us.

Last week I had the privilege of being a guest speaker – focusing on the topic of Women Veterans. The meeting was located at a retirement residential setting. Before I left the director asked for an appointment – expressing the concern for the residential veterans. The center wants to know how they can connect with organizations and other community veterans. Once again, the 40 & 8 came to mind. Supporting and connecting with veterans is what we are all about. Have you checked into your senior living facilities and identified your fellow veterans?

It is time to collect those COMMUNITY HOURS. Emphasize the importance of handing in hours. Let the voyageurs know that all volunteer hours count. A new voyageur asked if his time with Boy Scouts mattered. Another wanted to know if marching in parades and running fund-raising marathons counted. It ALL counts. Let’s give Tom Smith glowing reports this year. We are proud to serve and it is alright to share that service with others. You all are doing a GREAT job! Keep up the good work. Remember locale Voitures turn consolidated reports into the Grand Americanism Directeur. The Grands send the reports directly to Tom Smith. Last year there seemed to be some confusion concerning the process. You can download the Americanism Consolidated Report 2016 by going to the forty and eight website – click under sources and forms and scroll down to the report.

Americanism Awards – it’s time to recognize those who go beyond expected services. Who in your community will you sponsor? We have heroes, organizations, towns, all who step up to serve others. Again, you can find the forms at the forty and eight website. Spring is a good time to plan Wrecks – invite veterans in to check us out. Lately, it seems as though I’m meeting veterans at every corner. It’s interesting to strike up a conversation and invite a new friend to our social functions. Give it a try?

Ration D Bars—Hershey's contribution to the war...

Hershey Chocolate Corporation's involvement with the production of military ration bars began when Captain Paul Logan, from the office of U.S. Army Quartermaster General, met with William Murrie, President, Hershey Chocolate Corporation and Sam Hinkle, Chief Chemist, in April 1937. This initial visit started the experimental production of a ration bar which was to meet the needs of soldiers involved in a global war.

When Murrie and Hinkle told Milton Hershey about the visit by the Army Quartermaster Captain, he was very interested in hearing every detail and instructed them to get started on the project right away.

The standard chocolate bar, which melted readily in summer heat could never be adapted to being carried in a soldier's pocket. In addition, it was thought to be too tempting in taste to be used as an emergency ration to be eaten only when on the verge of starvation. Captain Logan explained his requirements: a bar weighing about four ounces, able to withstand high temperatures, high in food energy value, and tasting just a little better than a boiled potato.

Company Chemist Sam Hinkle was charged with developing the bar. The final ingredients were: chocolate liquor, sugar, skim milk powder, cocoa butter, oat flour, vanillin. Sugar was decreased and chocolate liquor increased to give the bar a less appealing taste than normal chocolate bars. The formula created a heavy paste that had to be pressed rather than poured into moulds. A four ounce bar contained 600 calories. After three days of experiments with blending and processing, Captain Logan gave his approval and a small quantity of four ounce bars was produced. Captain Logan was well pleased with the samples.

The original formula and shape of the ration bar were altered slightly when thiamine hydrochloride was added as a source of Vitamin B1 to prevent beriberi, a disease likely to be encountered in the tropics. These bars were originally called "Logan bars" and later were referred to as Field Ration D.

The first of the Field Ration D bars were used for field tests in the Philippines, Hawaii, Panama, the Texas border, and at various Army posts and depots throughout the United States. These bars also found their way to Antarctica with Admiral Byrd's last expedition in 1939. The results of the test were satisfactory and Field Ration D was approved for wartime use.

After the attack on Pearl Harbor by the Japanese on December 7, 1941, the Quartermaster felt it necessary to protect Field Ration D as well as other rations, from possible damage by poison gas.

New specifications called for the placing of each bar in a heavy cellophane bag, closing the bag by means of a heat seal, inserting this into an individual cardboard carton, securely gluing the carton ends, dipping the cartons in a wax mixture, packing twelve waxed cartons in a master carton, gluing the master cartons top and bottom, packing twelve master cartons in a wooden case, and nailing and steel stripping the case.

In recognition of its outstanding war effort Hershey Chocolate Corporation was awarded the Army-Navy 'E' Production Award on August 22, 1942. The Corporation received a flag to fly above the chocolate plant and a lapel pin for every employee. The award was presented for exceeding all production expectations in the manufacturing of an Emergency Field Ration. An honor not easily won nor lightly bestowed, this wartime honor recognized companies that consistently met high standards of quality and quantity in light of available resources.

March Trivia:

John "Benny" Benson was the Aleut boy who designed the flag of Alaska. Benny was 13 when he won a contest in 1927 to design the flag for the territory of Alaska, which became a U.S. state in 1959. Of the 142 submissions, a panel of judges all agreed that Benny Benson's design of eight stars of gold placed on a field of blue was the winner.
